

All American Canton Welcomes Mark Black to Its Leadership & Instructional Staff

Former All American player and professional baseball athlete returns to the organization in a leadership and instructional role.

All American Canton is excited to welcome Mark Black to its leadership and instructional staff as Director of Operations and General Manager of the Canton facility. Bringing extensive collegiate and professional playing experience, Black returns to the organization where his baseball journey began. In his new role, he will oversee daily facility operations, administrative responsibilities, and the continued development of training opportunities while also working directly with athletes through private lessons, small-group training sessions, and specialized player development programs.

Black's relationship with All American Baseball spans more than 15 years, beginning when he joined the program at eight years old. He progressed through the organization's training programs and competitive travel teams throughout his youth and high school career, continuing to return during his collegiate offseasons to train and work within the organization. His transition into a leadership and instructional role represents a continuation of that longstanding connection and a commitment to providing the next generation of All American athletes with the same opportunities that helped shape his own development.

A graduate of Serra Catholic High School in McKeesport, Pennsylvania, Black earned 2019 Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and TribLive Baseball Player of the Year honors before beginning a collegiate career that included Chipola College, Wake Forest University, Gardner-Webb University, and Seton Hill University. At Gardner-Webb, he earned Second-Team All-Big South honors as a utility player, appearing in 53 games with 48 starts while batting .280 with seven home runs and an OPS above .800 that season. He completed his collegiate career at Seton Hill University, serving as the Griffins' everyday catcher and helping lead the program to its third consecutive NCAA Division II Super Regional appearance.

Alongside his playing career, Black earned his bachelor's degree in Sport Management from Gardner-Webb University and his Master of Business Administration (MBA) with a concentration in Project Management from Seton Hill University.

Following the 2025 collegiate season, Black began his professional career with the Hagerstown Flying Boxcars of the Atlantic League, appearing in 58 games before joining the Evansville Otters of the Frontier League in 2026. Across his two professional seasons, he appeared in 115 games, recording six home runs and 43 RBIs while gaining experience behind the plate and in the outfield. Combined with his collegiate experience as a utility player, Black brings a versatile playing background and an understanding of multiple positions and aspects of the game.

As Director of Operations and General Manager of All American Canton, Black will be responsible for overseeing the facility's daily operations, coordinating training schedules, supporting instructional staff, and helping expand the organization's player development opportunities. In addition to these administrative responsibilities, he will serve as an active member of the instructional staff, offering private lessons, small-group instruction, and leadership of several established training programs. Drawing on his experience at the collegiate and professional levels, Black will work with athletes of varying ages and skill levels to develop their fundamentals, improve performance, and build the habits necessary for long-term success.

Having progressed from a young All American player to the collegiate and professional levels, Black now looks forward to sharing those experiences with the next generation of athletes while contributing to the continued growth and development of All American Canton.
